LANCASTER BALLROOM AND PARLOUR ROOMS

Lancaster Ballroom at The Savoy is one of the largest, most glamorous, and most historic ballrooms in London. Named after the Duchy of Lancaster, and designed by French architect René Sergent after an 18th century Parisian salon, it first opened in 1910, and still retains much of its original opulent Edwardian décor. This sizeable open space, with no internal pillars to spoil the view or the experience is one of London's prime spots for grand receptions, weddings, conferences, luncheons and dances. Uniquely in London, Lancaster Ballroom has its own stage, but the height and scale of this room lend themselves to imaginative temporary additional staging if required. Lancaster Ballroom is often used in conjunction with the adjoining Parlour Room.

RIVER ROOM

With a view over Embankment Gardens towards the Thames, and a fresh light interior, the double-height River Room is both a delightfully bright daytime venue, and a sophisticated and elegant evening space. A large central archway between the two halves of the room offers flexibility in configuring this space, with concealed floor-to-ceiling dividers offering an even more private experience if required. Combining elegant grandeur with intimacy and warmth, River Room is not only perfect for private dining and special parties but also acts as a spacious and stylish wedding reception room for larger events taking place in Lancaster Ballroom.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND MANHATTAN ROOMS

The elegant high-ceilinged Edwardian-style Abraham Lincoln room has the distinction of being the original banqueting room at The Savoy. Used alone, the room is the perfect size for business luncheons, conferences, formal dinners and dinner dances; the ideal space for banqueting in London.

The adjacent art deco Manhattan room is used frequently in conjunction with the Abraham Lincoln room, as a dedicated reception room. Both rooms benefit from their own private foyer and cloakrooms.

GONDOLIERS

With its painted decorative panels, delightful murals of eighteenth-century Venetian life, silvered mirrors, and gilded mirrored sconces; the Gondoliers private dining room is an elegant and charming backdrop to cocktail parties, private afternoon teas, and business meetings. The room's understated grandeur also adds lustre to special dining occasions.

SORCERER

The smallest and most intimate of The Savoy's private dining rooms, Sorcerer is perfect for both social and business lunches and dinners. It is frequently used as a reception area for Mikado to which it is connected.

With dramatic dark red walls and a unique and distinctive décor; Sorcerer is full of mystical character and charm.

MIKADO

Located on the ground floor of The Savoy, Mikado is one of the hotel's medium sized private rooms, retaining its original décor of wood-panelled walls with black edging and brass details. Bringing a sophisticated elegance to meetings, social lunches or dinners, this London private dining room offers plenty of space for a cocktail party or corporate events. Mikado can also be paired with the smallest private room, Sorcerer, if additional space is required.

IOLANTHE

A pretty, light oak-panelled room, with carved details and silvered highlights, the intimate Iolanthe room is an elegant choice for private dining or business meetings. Like all of the six private dining rooms at The Savoy, Iolanthe boasts natural light and is located near the heart of the hotel with easy access from the main hotel entrance.

PINAFORE

The most distinguished of The Savoy's original private dining rooms, Pinafore boasts a remarkable early example of an art deco interior. With its striking view across Embankment Gardens towards the River Thames, unique interior, and distinctive history, Pinafore offers the most memorable of locations for any event, personal or corporate, business or pleasure. It can be combined with the adjacent private room, Princess Ida & Patience, via a connecting door, if more space is required.
